MILLIONS FOR DEFENSE

APPROPRIATED SO FAR AS THE SENATE HAS ANY POWER.

Samuel J. Tilden Appropriately Quoted by Daves on the Fortifications Question—Cobb has a brush with another Nebraska Man—Congress in a More Harmonious Temper—Garland on the Ohio Bill.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 21.—A message was received from the house by the senate Wednesday relating the action of the house in ordering its conferees to insist on the striking out of the river and harbor bill of the clause providing for the canal and the river Mississippi. This raised a discussion, in which the house's action was criticised pretty vigorously. It was said that the house had no right to ask for a "full and free conference" after having its representatives by such action, and Allison offered a resolution refusing to grant such a conference. This was withdrawn, and the senate contented itself with appointing conferees and insisting on its amendments. The fortifications bill was then taken up. It appropriated $20,000,000. Daves read a letter from Samuel J. Tilden advocating liberal appropriations for fortifications, and the fortifications bill was then taken up. It appropriated $20,000,000 for providing facilities at Washington navy yard for the fitting and assembling of heavy ordnance; the following states were then passed. The conferees on the river and harbor bill were confirmed and agreed to. The senate then took up the "surplus" resolution, and pending its consideration adjourned.

The house having been adjourned by its conferees committee that the senate was firm on the item in the legislative appropriation bill providing for the payment of senators' clerks, adopted a motion to vote on that point, and later a report was made of agreement which was adopted. In committee of the whole the sundry civil bill was considered. Hild offered an amendment that the silver certificate clause providing that the coin should be paid out of all the silver dollars in the treasury, to be paid out on all obligations of the government, and when received by the treasury be retained. This was rejected and the appropriations committee's amendment, which does not materially change the clause as amended by the senate, adopted. Debate took place on the senate amendment reducing from $50,000 to $75,000 the appropriation to protect public lands from fraudulent entry, but the amendment was concurred in, the bill reported to the house and passed. The house then adjourned.

ANOTHER NEBRASKA MAN

Has a Sharp Passage With Cobb of Indiana Over Land Frauds.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 21.—Debate in the house over the clause in the sundry civil bill appropriating money to investigate frauds on the public domain developed a personal passage between Cobb of Indiana and Dorsey of Nebraska over the question of land frauds. Dorsey insisted that the transactions referred to by Cobb were not frauds, and Cobb intimated that he (Dorsey) was one of the men the special agents had in view.

Dorsey threatened and excitedly: "Don't you charge that against me, my friend. Cobb—I will make charges when the proof justifies them, and not until then. I made no charge."

Dorsey: "You said I was one of those men."

Cobb: "I said you were like one of the men the agents referred to."

The matter was then dropped. During the debate Cobb asserted his belief that 90 per cent of the entries in the northwest were fraudulent.

Foreign Gun Factories Too Busy.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 21.—During the consideration of the fortifications bill in the senate, Wednesday, Dicks argued that what the country wanted was guns, and that they should be bought now, of the best pattern, from Krupp and others abroad, and then guns should ultimately be made at home. He wanted to see the ports of New York, Boston, Norfolk and San Francisco, and said that once he did not believe the bill would go far enough in getting what was wanted now. Dicks stated that it was impossible for the United States to make guns abroad, as the great establishments were now employed to their utmost capacity in filling contracts for other governments, and it would take as much time for these establishments to fit American orders as it would take to establish the necessary plant in this country.

Will Do His Best for Home Talent.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 21.—Secretary Whitney has addressed a letter to Senator Cameron, chairman of the senate committee on naval affairs, explaining his future action under the clause in the bill authorizing additional ships for the navy which direct the secretary of the navy to purchase abroad shelling armor and other special material which is not possible to obtain in the United States. The secretary says he hopes it will not be found necessary to purchase anything abroad and that such purchases would certainly be limited to some few things for which our builders may not be entirely prepared at present and which it might be wise to purchase abroad than delay construction of the ships.

The Oleanargine Bill Constitutional.

WASHINGTON CITY, July 21.—The attorney general has returned the oleomargarine bill to the president with his opinion, in which it is understood that he declares the bill constitutional and that the president should be governed in approving or disapproving the bill by questions of expediency, necessity for the proposed revenue, and the propriety of placing the oleomargarine business under governmental surveillance. In other words, that the president has constitutional authority to sign the bill and discretionary power to veto it. While nothing authoritative can be learned as to the president's intentions, it is thought he will approve the measure.

The greater part of the time was spent in the private gallery of the senate, where she received calls from Senators Jones of Nevada, Cameron of Pennsylvania, and Representatives Reed of Maine and Belmont of New York. The Ohio delegation in congress has applauded a committee to confer with Mrs. Chase-Sprague in reference to the removal to Cincinnati of the remains of her father, the late Chief Justice Chase.

GEN. GORDON NOMINATED.

Georgia Democrats Almost Unanimous for Him—The State Ticket.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 21.—The Democratic state convention held here Wednesday with more than 500 delegates, Judge J. B. Bingham was elected permanent president. Two delegations appeared from Low county and a committee, after listening to the claims of both delegations, reported in favor of the delegates who were seated. The names of A. O. Bacon and Gen. John B. Gordon were proposed for governor. On the first ballot the vote stood: Gordon, 523; Bacon, 75; Jones, 6. The county delegations then amid cheering, changed their votes to Gordon and it resulted in Gordon's receiving 523 votes and Bacon 10. The nomination of Gen. Gordon, the greatest victory of the convention, was greeted with applause. A committee went upon the general who came to the hall, where his appearance was greeted with outbursts of applause. He responded in a strong address. The following states were then passed. The conferees on the river and harbor bill were confirmed and agreed to. The senate then took up the "surplus" resolution, and pending its consideration adjourned.
